

until Protestantism, is dead, and that "the extinction of Protestantism is arrived at."

The open arrival of the Sons of Rome, that the antagonism of the two religions, Protestantism is annihilated, places matters in a new light; since they avow that it is with the object of accomplishing the total annihilation of Protestantism, that they engage in this struggle. They tell us once, that they will not tolerate, they will annihilate, and we have proof that they do not tolerate, and that is more than an instance they have attempted to annihilate.

Under such circumstances, what is the duty of Protestants? It is to arrive at annihilation by all means? Is it to continue tolerance as extensively as ever? Our answer is plain. We do not wish to persecute, we hope to be able to continue tolerance, and as fully as possible, but in order that we may continue to tolerate, we expect that the feeling will be reciprocal.

If those, who have openly declared an annihilating antagonism to Protestants, be determined to carry out their bold threat, why with Shakespeare say "Lay on Macduff," for neither numbers, nor wealth of words, will deter Protestants, from defending by all the means which their Roman antagonists employ to assail, every foot of their ground. We therefore hope, that instead of being driven into this last extremity, our Roman antagonists will follow the example we set them, by freely tolerating, since, they may rest assured they cannot annihilate.

NAVIGATION LAWS.—The following is taken from the Mont. Courier, and exhibits a relaxation in the Navigation Laws, not to have been expected. We cannot be displeased with the order; and we are fully satisfied, that the present free trade system will terminate in making this order permanent. The trade of this colony has been sacrificed already, the trade of the home merchant rendered greatly precarious, and shipping will not be spared in the general change.

INDIAN DEPARTMENT.—We had hoped, that the representations made to the Indian Department, relative to the career pursued by Capt. Anderson, would have procured some abatement in the treatment of the occupants of the Indian Land in Tyendinaga. It has been clearly shown to the Department that it is impossible for the full amount to be paid up at once. Time has been asked, and the only answer that is given to this reasonable demand is the first issue of Law proofs. It is supposed, that if these people cannot pay for the Land, that the heavy expenses of a chancery suit, will enable them to do so. And surely it can never be the intention of the Department to charge the expenses of these suits, which now have reached to about four hundred and fifty pounds, to the public chest. We cannot believe that the Government has really any knowledge of these proceedings; and we feel it duty to see to have them performed to call upon the Council, to have the matter investigated, and to put the Indian Department, in efficient hands for management. The causes for complaint, that at present exist, call loudly for redress.

MARRIED.
By the Rev. J. B. Howard, on Thursday 20th ult.—at the Wesleyan Parsonage, Belleville, HIRAM HOLMES ESQ., Merchant of Sharnville, to MARIA, youngest daughter of the removal of a Pupil, William Howard Esq. of Grimsby, Kingston District.

OBITUARY.
Died on the 16th of May 1847, LAURA, wife of G. V. N. RYLAND, daughter of P. G. Seldon Esq. aged, 21 years 6 months and 16 days.
Her death was improved at the time of interment by the Rev. J. Harris, Pastor of the Congregational Church, Belleville, who in compliance with the wishes of surviving Relatives on friends, took for his text, the 2nd Verse of the 14th Chapter of the Gospel according to John, "In my Father's house are many mansions; if it were not so, I would have told you, go to prepare a place for you."

If the best thy great salvation
Must attain with trembling fear,
Lord and Judge of all creation,
Where shall sinful man appear?
Gid of love! and mercies tender!
Stem to vice, to weakness mild;
Teacher, Saviour, Sir, Defender!
Save, oh save, thy suppliant child!
By the claims which saints inherit,
From thy blood, for converts poured,
By thine all prevailing Spirit;
By thy covenanted word;
By thy tears, in sorrow weeping.

And as it is essential to the future prosperity and true glory of our rising Country, that her own sons, imitating the illustrious example which you, honored Sir, have nobly before them, should arise and do her honor, it becomes an object of the first importance, that the opportunity of acquiring a liberal education should be placed, as far as possible within the reach of all.
And as this Institution, though labouring great and peculiar disadvantages, has already been extensively useful, and if properly we believe well calculated to be more so, we hope as you have ever been favourable to its interests, and have not ceased to visit it, that you will exert your powerful influence, and do her honor, to the highest in the gift of the people, your member of its Senate.

And as this Institution, though labouring great and peculiar disadvantages, has already been extensively useful, and if properly we believe well calculated to be more so, we hope as you have ever been favourable to its interests, and have not ceased to visit it, that you will exert your powerful influence, and do her honor, to the highest in the gift of the people, your member of its Senate.
The magistrates still retained possession of this strange founding, when the letter detailing these facts was written. Henceforth we may believe in the legend of Bonaparte and Bonaparte.

Sir Allan, by virtue of his office as Speaker of the House of Commons, has been happy to see the gallant Knight looking so well in health. He took up his quarters with the Rev. A. McNab, A. M., Principal of the College. On Wednesday morning about 11 o'clock, Sir Allan, accompanied by the Faculty and several gentlemen from the town, proceeded to the College Chapel, when the following Address was read to him by the Students, and read by Mr. Orniston:

"To Sir ALLAN NAHER MACNAB, Knight, Speaker of the Legislative Assembly of United Canada.
Sir—It is with the most cordial and ungrudging pleasure that we of you a hearty welcome to the present auspicious occasion, and though inexperienced ill unskilled in our formalities, we beg leave to express the high sense which we entertain of the honor conferred upon us by the visit of a gentleman so highly distinguished as yourself, both by the favour of our Sovereign and the confidence of the people.
Nor can we forget that we are addressing one who by tried fidelity in her time of danger, and by untiring activity in her service, has won the esteem and deserves the gratitude of his native Country—one whose aim has been ever true advancement, and whose name will stand high in the list of her most distinguished sons.

And as it is essential to the future prosperity and true glory of our rising Country, that her own sons, imitating the illustrious example which you, honored Sir, have nobly before them, should arise and do her honor, it becomes an object of the first importance, that the opportunity of acquiring a liberal education should be placed, as far as possible within the reach of all.

At 7 o'clock in the evening the Exhibition commenced, before one of the largest and most respectable audiences that we have ever seen collected together in this District; an honour for which the College was mainly indebted to the great popularity and personal influence of her Rev. Principal. On the platform we were welcomed by the Rev. Dr. Grogan, the Rev. Archdeacon, the Rev. R. Jones, Chairman of the College District, also D. E. Boulton, Esq. Thomas Evans, Esq., and several other gentlemen. The College was handsomely decorated with evergreens, and appropriate mottoes hung round the walls.

The learned and Rev. Principal opened the proceedings with an eloquent address. He spoke of a good education being intended to diffuse light through the mind, and conduct reflection towards useful objects. Every action of the mind, he said, is a step towards the attainment of truth. It teaches to separate truth from error; to weigh without partiality, and decide without presumption. It creates the habit of endurance without speaking the truth. It enables us safely to proceed between the excessive timid custom, which superstitious reverence ancient customs, and the temerity which would break down every barrier. It is education which enables man to burst from the chains of degrading habits. It is an education that is part of judging of opinions exists, and of elaborating them, and rendering them more salutary. Amidst the progress of the human mind, evil, by an almost excruciating destiny, places itself in the way of good. A sound moral education enables us to separate what is beneficial in the mixture of those bad. Beneficial position upon society. Finally, education is the moral engine, which exerts physical force. The learned and Rev. gentleman spoke at considerable length, and concluded by stating that the Addresses which were to be delivered by the Students, were the result of their own productions. He also stated that of these Students, four had been but six months at College, one one year, one two years, and one three years; that the Ordinance must therefore make allowance for the faults of matter and manner. He trusted time and industry on the part of the students would correct both.

Immediately after the Principal resumed his seat, Master J. J. Broughton, of Cobourg, (who had been but one year at the Institution), moved that he deliver a Latin Oration. It was very correct, and reflected great credit upon his classical attainments.

Master W. H. Dean of Barrie (also a pupil of one year's standing), then delivered his address. "Of the military and christian hero contrasted." He spoke in a clear, distinct voice, and was warmly applauded by the audience.
"History," by R. Davis, York, was very excellent indeed.
The next speaker, W. S. Griffin, Waterdown, had chosen a popular subject, "The British Empire," to a popular subject.

Hotel to Let,
IN THE TOWN OF BELLEVILLE,
(C. W.)

THE undersigned give notice, that they will have ready for occupation by the 1st of July next, a newly erected and THREE STORY STONE EDIFICE, built expressly for a Hotel, with all the necessary, sheds and outbuildings.

The house is situated on the corner of Bridge and Pinnacle Streets, being in the most eligible situation for a first rate Hotel. The proprietors, having taken into consideration, the growing importance of the Town, have erected a building, that will enable a person understanding the importance, to keep as good a House, as can be kept in Canada. The building is commodious, and well arranged, and there can be no doubt, that it will keep excellent business may be obtained. Belleville has long been without a good Tavern, and in no Town in Canada, is there a greater opening for a well kept Hotel. All that is necessary, to induce success is proper attention, and a well kept House.

Letters addressed to either of the subscribers will meet with prompt attention.
The Proprietors, will make matters easy for the Tenant, so that he may have a large opportunity of succeeding, but they will expect that a first rate House shall be kept.

Coarse and Stowed Liverpool Salt delivered at any point on Lakes Ontario and Erie.
Quebec, December, 1846. 50-3m.
The Belleville Forwarding Company, Colonist, Hamilton Spectator, and London Times, are requested to insert the above advertisement once a week for 3 months, and send their accounts to the Agent, Kingston.

NOTICE.

THE Subscribers hereby give notice, that from and after this date they will carry on the business of WAREHOUSEMEN apart from that of FORWARDERS, and will not receive into their Warehouses here any produce other than that already contracted for, and lying in the former capacity of the subscribers.

The London warehouse was closed on the 24th of March, and the business of the subscribers, in consequence of the absence of disease, among the inmates.

The Dublin Pilot publishes a letter from Mr. Grogan, M. P. addressed to the Lord Mayor of Dublin, which contains some important statements—
"The number of destitute Irish who have immigrated to Liverpool is represented as amounting to several thousands (40,000); most of not all of these poor persons come from the Southern and Western districts of Ireland, when the new poor-law for Ireland was passed, they will be sent back to that country. Sir G. Gray stated this to be the intention of the authorities in Liverpool, to say, as in all probability the greatest number of the poor will be landed in Dublin, this becomes a question of the most vital importance to the prosperity of the city. Viewing it in this light, it is an interview with the Government, and the Government on the subject. The Government, according to the weight of the charge likely to fall upon Dublin, are still unwilling to admit Ireland all the legislation, and expenses consequent upon a settlement law as existing here; but would be willing, I think, to consider any proposal whereby Dublin and the other, warts may be relieved from this burden, too certain to fall on them, without the concomitant evils resulting from the English law of settlement. I thought it my duty, therefore, to call your immediate attention to this subject, in the hope that some plan may be devised whereby this object can be attained; and, if not, that it may be introduced into the measure now before the House."

On Tuesday, Jennifer Bolitho, a widow of Redruth, was tried for the murder of her husband, John Foster. The jury, by purposely withholding nourishment, Sir herself had been all but starving; evidence was not quite conclusive; and she was acquitted by a Jury inclined to the merciful side.

At Bury St. Edmund's Assizes, on Saturday, Catherine Foster was tried for the murder of her husband, John Foster. The jury, by purposely withholding nourishment, Sir herself had been all but starving; evidence was not quite conclusive; and she was acquitted by a Jury inclined to the merciful side.

Poetry.

OUR COUNTRY AND OUR QUEEN.

HURRAH! BY MR. A. STODART.

Hurrah! hurrah for England!

Her woods and valleys green;

Hurrah for good old England!

Hurrah for England's queen!

Strong ships be on her waters,

Firm friends upon her shores,

Peace, peace within her borders,

And plenty in her stores.

Right joyfully we're singing,

We're glad to make it known,

That we love the land we live in,

And our Queen upon her throne.

Then hurrah for merry England!

And may we still be seen

True to our own dear country,

And loyal to our Queen!

ENGLISH DOMESTIC LIFE.

Home! 'tis a true born English word,

From sense and feeling spring,

And bright thoughts colour the heart,

Are by its magic flung;

The winds of heaven may shake our house,

The gusting floods may foam,

But English household doors not break

The sanctity of home.

Then let the fire-wood higher blaze,

And pile the simple board

With food that nature has constituted

The magic of the word;

No! I heart must answer back to heart,

And kindred feelings cheer,

For selfish soul can never taste

The happiness of home.

And while to comfort and to cheer,

With hand of love we stand,

Our home, our hearth, our friends are dear,

And this our native land;

Let others over earth and sea

In quest of pleasures roam,

I have there dwelt, and know not change

Our own, our English home.

UNCOLORED ACCOUNT OF A COLORED DUEL.

A duel between two darkies—a regular bull fight—conducted according to the most strict and punctilious provisions of the code of honor

—came off one morning last week. The fight took place with pistols of the most approved

Mattaric rule. We do not know what the origin of the difficulty was, except that one of the parties was crossed in his pride by the order, and dam liona must have satisfied.

We have learned, from one who was present at the combat, the particulars as they transpired.

They were substantially as follows:—

After having taken their stands, one of the seconds uttered, that, owing to their position, the sunbeams set his principal a winking and rolling his eyes. This was sufficient ground for interposing and he called out to the other provided for emigrants to the British colonies.

Hence, as the object of this measure would be that emigration should proceed much faster than it now does, it is a very low estimate of the charge which would be thrown upon the public, to assume that eight per cent. of the population of this country to America would have to be provided for at least as many persons as now emigrate at their own expense. But in the last ten years no less a number than 687,000 persons have so emigrated—the emigration of last year alone having been upwards of 110,

000. At present, the emigration is estimated at a very cheap rate. The desire to reach America being exceedingly strong, and many of the emigrants are content, in order to do so, to submit to very great hardships during the voyage, indeed, so powerful is this feeling, that were it not for the requirements of the law, thousands of emigrants would make the Atlantic in ships overcrowded and insufficiently provisioned, that a fearful amount of disease and death would inevitably ensue.

"If, however, this service were undertaken by the Executive Government, the sort of accommodation which is now submitted on the upper end of the Town, near the
